Your Royal Highness,

I hope this letter finds you well. We are a group of 5 students from France next to Lyon. We talked about you in our English class especially about your personal video announcing your cancer. We wanted to take a moment to send you our thoughts and encouragement. We also send our support to your family in this difficult time. We know that it must be hard for Charlotte, Georges and Louis. We saw you on television at Wimbledon. We were very joyed because we were looking forward to seeing you. We stood up and were all cheering for you in front of the television. We hope to see you fully recover soon and we send you prayers in order for you to get better. We were really relieved to see you well at Wimbledon because as we know you have undergone chemotherapy and it's a really harsh treatment. Hopefully you will be out of the woods soon. We are really inspired by your strength and your courage. We know that it surely has helped other people going through the same situation. We hope you get all the privacy and rest that you need and deserve.
