Dear Céline,

Tabarnak! What a come back!

Seeing you on the big stage during the Paris 2024 Olympics opening ceremony was such a surprising and stunning experience which moved us, as French students. Your ability to convey emotions through your music is unmatched. Indeed, we were astonished in front of your bravery and determination.

We took the chance to learn more about your disease. Moreover, the fact that you made your disease public was really beneficial for many of us. Your honesty helped people affected with similar disease to overcome it and feel supported. Besides, it made us understand why you had left the stage for so long - we were crying our eyes out.

If we had to remember one thing that stood out in your documentary: "I am: Celine Dion." we would quote: "If I can't walk, I'll crawl." as it displays your inspiring mindset and strength. We know you are doing whatever it takes to recover.

We are looking forward to seeing you on stage again.
Lots of love from French Students.

Yours sincerely,

Suzanne, Jules, Lison and Juliette.
